Visit by Lithuanian Foreign Minister

The Lithuanian Minister for Foreign Affairs, Linas Linkevičius, visited Australia and spoke at a public event hosted by the EU Centre at RMIT about the changing security situation in Europe, and the new challenges to the international security environment.

Mr Linkevičius was appointed Lithuania's Minister of Foreign Affairs on 13 December 2012. Prior to this appointment, Ambassador Linkevičius served as the Lithuanian Permanent Representative to NATO (2005-2011). He became a Member of Seimas (Parliament) in 1992 and in 1993 he was promoted to Minister of National Defence of Lithuania, a post which he held until 1996, when he became the Ambassador and Head of Mission of Lithuania to NATO and the WEU.

Meeting Ambassador Fabrizi—Finance Minister Cormann

Europe is Western Australia's third largest trading partner and this was reflected in talks organised at Curtin University on 12-13 March and attended by the European Union's Ambassador Sem Fabrizi, Finance Minister Mathias Cormann and Curtin University's Vice Chancellor Professor Deborah Terry among others. A briefing organised by the European Australian Business Council explored possible avenues for future European-Australian collaboration in a session which formed part of a larger EU Delegation engagement in Perth on the same dates.

EU NEWS

Report by President Donald Tusk to the European Parliament on the March European Council

President Tusk reported on the discussion of the March European Council. The topics discussed included concrete steps towards an Energy Union; the European economy—jobs and growth prospects; the TTIP with the aim of achieving an ambitious, comprehensive and mutually beneficial agreement by the end of 2015; the European neighbourhood policy; the security situation in Libya; the situation in Tunis after the terrorist attack at the Bardo Museum; the Eastern Partnership summit in Riga; support for the peace process in Ukraine and linking the sanctions regime to the complete implementation of the Minsk agreements; and the situation in Greece, important to the future of the euro zone and the European Union.

OECD Interim Economic Assessment

According to the latest OECD Interim Economic Assessment, the euro area is projected to grow at a 1.4 percent rate in 2015 and a 2 percent pace in 2016. Growth prospects differ widely among the major euro area economies. Germany is forecast to grow by 1.7 percent in 2015 and 2.2 percent in 2016, France by 1.1 percent in 2015 and 1.7 percent in 2016, while Italy will see a 0.6 percent growth rate in 2015 and 1.3 percent in 2016.

“Lower oil prices and widespread monetary easing have brought the world economy to a turning point, with the potential for the acceleration of growth that has been needed in many countries,” said OECD Chief Economist Catherine L. Mann. “There is no room for complacency, however, as excessive reliance on monetary policy alone is building-up financial risks, while not yet reviving business investment. A more balanced policy approach is needed, making full use of fiscal and structural reforms, as well as monetary policy, to ensure sustainable growth and public finances over the longer term.”

New EU Special Representative for Near East

On 16 March a new Special Representative, Italian Fernando Gentilini, at present director for Western Europe, the Western Balkans and Turkey for the Union's diplomatic service was appointed to take over responsibility for the Near East. This post, which was abolished by Catherine Ashton in view of centralising the EU's approach, had been vacant since the beginning of 2014. The post comprises working for the revival of the peace process between Israel and the Palestinians. Federica Mogherini announced that the EU was trying to "revive the Quartet", a union of the UN, Russia, the USA and the EU, in the Israeli-Palestinian peace process.

Recent Publications

Evi Fitriani, Southeast Asians and the Asia-Europe Meeting (ASEM): State's Interests and Institution's Longevity, Institute of Southeast Asian Studies, 2014.

The inauguration of the Asia-Europe Meeting (ASEM) in Bangkok in 1996 was celebrated with enthusiasm and hopes in the two regions because this forum represented a breakthrough in Asia-Europe relations. The region-to-region pattern of the relations becomes the study framework that enables the explorations of central themes which include the Asian regional identity, ASEAN collective diplomatic prominence, and the informality of the ASEM institution.

In exploring those central themes, this book applies constructivist, realist, and neo-liberal institutional theories consecutively. The difference between Asian and European cooperative culture, as well as the longevity of an international institution, adds to the picture. This book contributes not only to the study of Asia-Europe relations but also to the understanding of regionalism in Asia.

EVENTS

Public Lectures & Seminars

08 April 2015—13.00–14.00

Gender Identity and Farming

Speaker: Professor Sally Shortall, School of Sociology, Social Policy and Social Work, Queen's University Belfast

Location: Monash University, Caulfield Campus, Theatre H235, Level 2, Building H, Caulfield

Professor Sally Shortall's research interests include questions about rural women, farming women, rural development theory and practice, governance, community and stakeholder engagement in policy processes, and how evidence is used to inform policy.

Professor Shortall is currently interested in the social construction of knowledge to inform rural policy and the power struggles between empirical and normative knowledge. This draws on her research experience of being an 'expert' adviser for the UK Food Standard Agency, the European Parliament, the European Commission, the OECD, and the time she spent in the Department of Agriculture and Rural Development Northern Ireland, and as an ESRC funded Knowledge Transfer Fellow.

Gallipoli revisited

Speakers: Professor Alexander C. McFarlane AO, Professor of Psychiatry, Head, University of Adelaide Centre for Traumatic Stress Studies; Senior Adviser, Psychiatry, Australian Defence Force and the Department of Veterans Affairs; International Society for Traumatic Stress Studies Lifetime Achievement Award recipient; Professor Robin Prior, Visiting Research Fellow, University of Adelaide, Professor of History, Flinders University; inaugural Head, School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Australian Defence Force Academy; Alexia Moncrieff, PhD candidate History, University of Adelaide; research focus: examination of the medicalisation of the Australian Imperial Force through the work of the Australian Army Medical Corps in the First World War

Location: The Braggs lecture theatre, North Terrace campus, Adelaide

In recognition of this year's Centenary of the ANZAC Gallipoli landing, the University of Adelaide presents a forum to explore some of the occasion's greatest legacies. Topics explored include:

- Why Gallipoli was a critical turning point for the Australian Army Medical Corps – there's a lot more to remember than just Simpson and his donkey.

- The enduring lessons of WWI in the field of mental health, and particularly our understanding of the devastating impact of post-traumatic stress disorder.
- How the myths of Gallipoli differ from historical reality, and why – even with all mistruths stripped away – it's still incredibly important to our nation.

Memories in my luggage—Towards Multiculturalism: German Migration 1935–1956 (Opening night)

Speaker: Michael Pearce, Honorary Consul-General of Germany; Sabine Nielsen, author

Location: Goethe Institute Melbourne, Level 1, 448 St Kilda Rd, Melbourne

"Memories in my luggage" recounts the stories of thirteen German migrants in Australia. It offers an insight into the rich traditions migrants bring to a new country and sheds light on the various issues of migration.

The touring exhibition is based on the book "Ein bisschen Heimat im Gepäck" ("Memories in my luggage") by Melbourne-based German author Sabine Nielsen and tells the stories of migrants who arrived in Melbourne between 1935 and 1956. The exhibition will include ten black and white photographs by German photographer Eva Maria Rugel, a digital presentation as well as information about organisations that assist migrants. The exhibition will be accompanied by a series of talks, lectures, forums, musical and culinary events.

Please RSVP by 13 April.

Call for Papers

EUSA AP Annual Conference

Closing date: 15 April 2015

Location: Seoul Korea

The 2015 EUSA AP conference, 11–12 June 2015, presents a double theme, highlighting the EU's manifold roles and concepts it endeavours to endorse.

- Is European Integration still the Model for the Asia Pacific Region?

The EU model of integration remains the most substantial example of a law-based form on integration internationally. However, the extent to which the European experience remains instructive for Asian Pacific Regionalism has more contentious in the context of the Sovereign Debt and the Eurozone crisis. Papers from any relevant discipline that address this topic are either empirically or conceptually welcomed.

- The EU as a Development Actor and Possibilities for Partnerships

2015 is both the deadline for the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and has been designated the Year of Development by the EU. With the increasing involvement of other development actors globally it is opportune to reflect upon the EU's development record as well as consider innovative options for crafting new development partnerships regionally and globally. Papers from any relevant discipline that address this topic either empirically or conceptually are welcomed.

As indicated by the double theme, the conference will be multi-disciplinary in focus and applications from a wide range of fields are encouraged to develop a deeper understanding of the complexities of the relationships.

23 June – 5 July 2015

European Neighbourhood Policy Summer School—Ph.D. Summer School in Poland, Israel and Palestine

Closing date: 10 March 2015

Location: Poland, Israel, Palestine

Following the success of previous ENP Ph.D. Summer Schools, the European Neighborhood Policy Chair at the College of Europe, Natolin campus, in collaboration with the Centre for the Study of European Politics and Society (CSEPS) at Ben-Gurion University of the Negev (BGU) and the Konrad Adenauer Stiftung (KAS; Jerusalem Office and Ramallah Office), is organizing the third Ph.D. Summer School on "The ENP under Pressure: The EU and the Eastern and the Southern Neighbourhoods", from 23 June to 5 July 2015 at the College of Europe, Natolin campus (Warsaw), at BGU (Beer Sheva) and at KAS (Jerusalem and Ramallah).

The Ph.D. Summer School will concentrate on the dynamics between the European Union (EU) and its eastern and southern neighborhoods, and the Israeli-Palestinian conflict with a special focus on the revised European Neighbourhood Policy (ENP) framework, which is currently undergoing yet another review process. It will analyze the evolution and implications of the ENP, the social and political transformations in the neighboring countries, issues related to conflict and territorial occupation, and discuss how the most recent developments in the ENP countries, as well as in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, influence EU policies and politics.

The purpose of this summer school is to bring together and train a group of Ph.D. students in theoretical, empirical and research-strategic issues on the subject matter, as well as encourage the exchange of their expertise. Additionally, the aim is to support the participants in furthering their research projects. The Ph.D. Summer School invites political science applicants who specialize in various sub-disciplines, including EU

Conferences

National

9 – 11 November 2015

Race, Mobility and Imperial Networks: Charting the Transnational Asia-Pacific World, 1800-2015

Location: Melbourne

'Race, Mobility and Imperial Networks' will be a multi-disciplinary conference co-hosted by RMIT University and La Trobe University. In the wake of the transnational turn, we have begun to appreciate the global networks that produced and continue to produce imperial spaces. The world of the Pacific Rim, encompassing the Pacific Islands, Australia, New Zealand and British Columbia; the Americas and Asia was partly defined by mobility, ocean-crossings and forced migration. It is also a space that has been configured by European, American and Asian imperial powers with attending notions of racial or ethnic taxonomies.

Global Growth Agendas: Regions, Institutions and Sustainability

Location: Piacenza, Italy

Social and economic imbalances of the current phase of globalization require a rethinking of the model of international and regional development. The issues of inequality, ecological risks, and poor growth in some areas put at the center of the scientific and political debate the theme of values and institutions. What are the values for sustainable regional development in the future? And what institutional reforms are needed to overcome the negative consequences of the recession triggered by the financial turmoil of recent years? Which tools can strengthen the capacity of regions and cities to adapt to all changes and to increase the resilience of areas?

To answer these questions the RSA 2015 European Conference in Piacenza offers some lines of reflection about the themes of well-being and quality of life, technological and social innovation, individual and collective entrepreneurship, by starting from the analysis of the values and motivations that drive individual and institutional action.

The conference will also include an excursion to the Milan Expo for the final plenary session, which addresses "Feeding the Planet, Energy for Life", to debate the urgent need for answers in the field of global food supply and sustainable energy production.

The conference offers the opportunity to researchers and workers in local and regional development to explore and discuss collectively these key issues from different theoretical perspectives and empirical observation.

Schengen: People, Borders and Mobility

Location: Universidade Nova de Lisboa, Lisbon, Portugal

In the era of globalization, which benefits the implementation of policies of both stimulus or repression for the movement of people, academics have been fostering discussion around topics and concepts related with migration, borders and mobility. This epistemological basis enables us to apprehend the complexity of the European area and invites us to examine the boundaries or lack of it that separate territories.

Thirty years after the signing of the first Schengen agreement, it urges to study the processes of people circulation (and their diversity) within and into this area.

This international conference aims to discuss how the implementation of the Schengen Area has affected and changed relations between Member States, between themselves and third countries, as well as its consequences under the European Neighbourhood Policy.

The conference also seeks to analyze the changes in the concepts of border and border control; to understand how residents in the Schengen Area native or immigrants build their national and transnational identity; to assess the evolution of mobility within the Schengen Area, which in turn allows us to perceive the relations between regions, states and individuals and to explain the various impacts of the Schengen agreements in the territories, people and societies and their border experiences. The conference working languages are Portuguese and English.

The European Conference on Politics, Economics and Law 2015 (ECPEL2015)

Location: Brighton, United Kingdom

The theme of the 2015 ECPEL conference is “Power”. Power as a commodity has challenged the minds of social scientists and philosophers while its exercise has always fascinated historians. From classical thinkers’ works such as Aristotle’s Politika or Machiavelli’s Il Principe through modern figures who manipulate power in the media, like Silvio Berlusconi or Rupert Murdoch, to the vast networks that support major heads of state, power has been a necessity to some or like an aphrodisiac to others. The dynamics of power and its associations with wealth and status now shape the contemporary world more visibly than ever. It is a research challenge to all fields of the social sciences to offer some explanation of its magnetism and its mechanisms.

9–21 July 2015

The European Conference on Sustainability, Energy & the Environment 2015 (ECSEE2015)

Location: Brighton, United Kingdom

The theme of the 2015 ECSEE Conference, taking place from 9–12 July 2015, is “Power & Sustainability”. Sustainability remains as a powerful ideal that acts as a driving force in relation to the pressing concerns of energy and the environment. Its proponents often protest their lack of power to effect change because of the control systems already in place in the form of tax-evading multinational corporations, banks that support them, and governments that turn a blind eye to malpractice. Is the claim to lack of power as serious as is alleged, or are there other approaches that have not been tried? Advocates of sustainable growth surely have the responsibility to search for alternative avenues and corridors of power? The abolition of slavery in the British Empire, for example, was the work of one man who resisted and confounded the argument that no economy could survive without it. This conference will take the concepts and lenses of power and sustainability as we seek multidisciplinary solutions and work together towards the creation of a sustainable world.

Other

Horizon 2020

Closing date: project dependent

Horizon 2020, the new EU Research and Innovation program, is a Europe 2020 flagship initiative aimed at securing Europe's global competitiveness. Funding is based on competitive calls open to everyone, also to organisations/individuals outside the EU. Participants from countries associated to the EU research framework program have the same rights as EU participants; for other countries, the situation varies. Funding in the 2014 budget is focused on the three key pillars of Horizon 2020:

- Excellent Science: Around €3 billion, including €1.7 billion for grants from the European Research Council for top scientists and €800 million for Marie Skłodowska-Curie fellowships for younger researchers (see MEMO/13/1123).
- Industrial Leadership: €1.8 billion to support Europe's industrial leadership in areas like ICT, nanotechnologies, advanced manufacturing, robotics, biotechnologies and space.
- Societal challenges: €2.8 billion for innovative projects addressing Horizon 2020's seven societal challenges, broadly: health; agriculture, maritime and bio economy; energy; transport; climate action, environment, resource efficiency and raw materials; reflective societies; and security.
